This learner attended the course to increase her personal confidence having had a break from paid employment for 10 years to stay at home to look after her children. Her aim on the course was to get an understanding about working in childcare and education. She had previously worked in dementia care for 11 years and was trying to decide whether to go back to her previous role or change careers to something different than looking after people at the end of their life. She wanted to be able to make a more informed decision.

This learner was anxious about attending an online course and had just completed an IT course to help increase her IT literacy. She was also concerned about meeting new people.

After the course she commented: "I have gained an awful lot of useful knowledge about progressing into early years education. I now understand what is expected of me, the values and beliefs I need, and the transferrable skills I possess in order to move forward. Thank you, Helen."

The learner managed to secure an interview with a Primary School in a Teaching Assistant role looking after a child with specific learning difficulties and physical disabilities.

She was delighted that she was offered the job and accepted.

If the learner would like to add any additional information, comments or feedback about the impact that the course had on them, please use the section below:

After the interview, the learner sent the following by email:

At yesterday's interview I took on board all of the fantastic information you gave me over the last 3 weeks and utilised it to the best of my ability. I believe it went well. The ladies seemed engaged and happy with my responses. The manager was very impressed that I knew who their safeguarding lead and deputy were (I did some homework on their policies online). I even managed to make the other interviewer tearful with one of my responses. One of my final questions was 'Would you consider putting me through an apprenticeship scheme IF I were to be successful?' The manager admitted that she 'didn't have a prepared response for that question, but that it was definitely worth considering'

Once finished I thanked the ladies for the opportunity to interview for a position within their lovely setting and I think that at the very least I have definitely secured myself a position volunteering for the setting. Again, this is hugely positive, as it a step in the right direction.

Thanks again for all of your lovely support Helen. You have given me so much more confidence in moving forward.
